York: The Shadow Cipher, by Laura Ruby

(Walden Pond Press, $17.99) "This is truly a remarkable novel involving three eighth-graders whose apartment building has been bought by a rich landlord. All the families are being forced out, but there is a legendary puzzle that leads to treasure, and the trio decides to find it to save their home. Full of fascinating characters, history, puzzles, fantastical creations, humor, grief, loss, and surprising twists and turns, York is a promising start to a new series."

—Richard Corbett, Powell's Books, Portland, OR

For Teen Readers

Spill Zone, by Scott Westerfeld, Alex Puvilland

(First Second, $22.99) "Tough-as-nails Addison will do anything to provide for her little sister, Lexa—that includes going into the Spill Zone, aka the most dangerous place on Earth. After an unnatural disaster hits her city, killing her parents and causing her sister to become mute, Addison survives by selling pictures of the Spill Zone, despite the danger it puts her in. Spill Zone is the cool, creepy, and awesome story of how Addison breaks all her safety rules for a million dollar payoff—and of how the Spill Zone might want to keep her there forever." —Sami Thomason, Square Books, Oxford, MS
